Eden Refuses To Tell Inside Story Of Missing Frogman

Soviet Relations Might Be Chilled By Explanation

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden angrily refused tonight to explain the mystery of Britain's missing frogman. He hinted that telling the secret might chill relations with Russia.

"In this business," Eden told parliament, his face grave and his voice deeply serious, "I do not rest only on the national interest. There is also a very important international interest."

The House of Commons was packed and hushed. Sir Winston Churchill, hunched in a front row seat, stared at his successor. . . .

Adm. Lord Mountbatten, first lord of the Admiralty clasped his knuckles in the gallery and hung over the fails.

Eden "Deplores" Debate

"I confess," said Eden, "that what I care is that the outcome of our discussions with the Soviet leaders should, in truth, prove to be, as I have said—the beginning of the beginning."

In complete quiet, Eden went on:

"I intend to safeguard that possibility at all costs. I believe that that is the policy of the Soviet leaders and it is for that reason that I deplore this debate and will say no more."

His eyes flashed and he looked angrily at the Laborites who had unsuccessfully tried to bait him into explaining why naval Comdr. (Ret.) Lionel (Buster) Crabb, the frogman, was spotted near a Russian cruiser.

After that dramatic pause, Eden sat down amid a roar of "Hear! hear! hear!" from his Conservative backers.

Frogman Presumed Dead

The frogman is officially listed as "missing—presumed dead" in the cold waters of Portsmouth harbor while diving near the cruiser that last month brought Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on a visit to Britain.

Eden earlier told the Soviets that he regrets the incident, but beyond saying that no minister of the government was responsible for it, he has kept silent.

Eden told Commons today "I have not one more word to say than I announced on Wednesday."

At that time, the Prime Minister said Crabb was operating "without authorization" in diving into Portsmouth Harbor. The British Admiralty has said he was engaged in diving tests.

Embassy Denies Rumor Crabb Working For U.S.

LONDON, May 14 (AP)—A small, left-wing labor group reported rumors today that the naval frogman who apparently lost his life spying on Russian warships was working for the United States.

"That's complete nonsense," said a spokesman for the American Embassy in London.

Rep. Powell Denies Receiving Kickback

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D - NY) denied in federal court today ever having received a kickback of money from his congressional secretary, Mrs. Hattie Freeman Dodson.

He appeared as a surprise witness at Mrs. Dodson's trial on income tax evasion charges. Judge Irving R. Kaufman previously had refused a defense motion to dismiss the charges but cleared her husband, Howard.

"Unqualifiedly no, never, not a penny," Powell said in reply to a question on whether he ever got a kickback.

Mrs. Dodson is accused of evading $5,000 in taxes and getting $2,000 in refunds for 1948 to 1952 by listing dependents fraudulently.

Daughter Comforts Wounded Man

Mrs. Darlene Recheck, 17, tries to comfort her critically wounded father, John Mungall, 40, at an emergency hospital in Canoga Park, Calif. He was shot in the stomach and thigh, police said, by Regis C. Johnston, 33, who killed himself after slaying his estranged wife, Mrs. Virginia Jean Johnston, 31, and Mungall's wife, Mrs. Bess Mungall, 35, at the Mungall home. Officers theorized that Johnston blamed the Mungalls for the split-up in his family. (AP Photofax)

USW Executive Board Approves List Of Demands

PITTSBURGH, May 14 (AP)—The United Steelworkers Executive Board drafted contract proposals today and recommended that the union's powerful Wage Policy Committee adopt them as formal demands for coming contract negotiations with the basic steel industry.

The board comprised of 39 members met for about two hours. USW President David J. McDonald said the proposals received unanimous approval and he personally would recommend they be adopted.

The 170-member Wage Policy Committee must approve any demands before they are placed on the bargaining table.

After a secret session of the Wage Policy Committee, McDonald said he is "an optimistic fellow."

McDonald declined to say what the proposed draft included. However, he and other union officials already are on record in public speeches as wanting a substantial wage increase, supplemental unemployment benefit program, improved insurance benefits and premium pay for Saturday and Sunday work.

There was little doubt that the board's proposals contained all of these.

The union already has notified 172 basic steel companies and iron or mining firms it wants to negotiate new contracts to replace pacts expiring June 30.

The expiring contracts cover some 650,000 of the union's 1,200,000 members. The others are employed in steel fabricating firms whose contracts expire later.

Damage Award Reversal Shocks Train Brakeman

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Supreme Court last fall ruled that the New Haven Railroad must pay $90,000 to an injured brakeman. Today the court reversed the decision and sent the case back to a lower court.

"Oh my God," said brakeman Raymond G. Cahill, 24, at his New Haven, Conn., home. "You mean they're going to take it away?"

The railroad already had paid Cahill the money on the basis of the first decision and he has spent a good part of it.

Today's reversal was a 5-4 decision. Last fall's decision also was 5-4. The justice who changed his mind and swung the court the other way was Sherman Minton.

The minority of four in the new decision filed a harshly ordered protest against reopening the case and sending it back to a lower court. "There should be a finality

Two Technicians Drown On Mission To Struck Plant

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 14 (AP)—Two technicians trying to ferry food to the strikebound plant of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. were drowned today when their small motor boat capsized in the Niagara River.

The company identified them as George Wise Jr. of Tonawanda and Allen N. Brown of Niagara Falls. A spokesman said they were members of the nonstriking supervisory force.

Approximately 1,800 members of an independent union struck the plant here today in a dispute over contract details.

Witnesses on shore said Wise and Brown struggled briefly in the water, about a mile and a half above Niagara Falls, then disappeared.

15 Men Exposed To Radioactivity

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said at least 15 persons were accidentally exposed to "small doses" of gamma radiation at Ft. Belvoir, Va., today, but that the amount was "not serious."

They were workmen and others engaged on construction of an Army package power reactor. On hand in that connection was a radioactive bit of iridium, used in X-ray welds to make sure they were absolutely perfect.

An AEC statement said this "industrial iridium source . . . was removed from its shielded container and contrary to standard practice left unshielded for about three hours."

There was little doubt that the board's proposals contained all of these.

Somehow, the minority opinion said.

Asked if he had spent much of his damage award, Cahill said: "I'll be honest with you. I have three children, and I bought a piece of property and I'm building a nominally-priced house on it, about $12,000."

"I paid all my bills, about $20,000, and I bought a Ford station wagon. I haven't even bought a suit of clothes for myself."

In the background, over the telephone, a woman started to sob.

"That's my wife," said Cahill. "I'll have to hang up now. . . I've been disappointed so many times, one of us has kind of got to keep from going to pieces."

Cahill was injured by a truck that started up suddenly while the brakeman was flagging traffic behind a stalled train in New Haven. He contended he was told to work in a dangerous place without being warned.

Ike Says Cutting Job Accidents Local Problem

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the loss of 14,200 American lives through job accidents last year was "in many ways more tragic" than the deadly toll of traffic accidents.

It should be easier to prevent deaths on the job than deaths on the highway, he told the opening day's meeting of a three-day Conference on Occupational Safety.

Traffic accidents — there were 38,000 killed in them last year — are not being handled in this conference. It deals with safety practices in factories, construction projects, farms, etc.

3,000 Delegates Attend
Eisenhower called the conference and about 3,000 delegates representing business, labor and farm organizations were on hand in Constitution Hall.

He said that such a turnout was "heartening" and "I have every confidence that the minute you return home we'll begin to see an improvement and we'll improve each year."

He said that from a government standpoint, Washington can do little, but the states and local communities can handle the main burden.

Langlie, Mitchell Speak
Eisenhower was accompanied to the meeting by Gov. Arthur B. Langlie of Washington, who has announced for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator.

Langlie reported to the conference on work done in his state, with savings in lives, skills, earnings and the cost of accident insurance premiums.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell told the meeting that greater safety efforts could have prevented nearly two thirds of the nearly two million job accidents recorded nationwide last year.

Collision Sinks Ship; Four Seamen Drown

MONTEREY, Calif., May 14 (AP)—A big ocean freighter cut in two and sank a small lumber ship off the California coast early today.

Four men, all from the 29-man crew of the lumber carrier, Howard Olson, lost their lives. One other man from the Olson was injured. The second ship, the Marine Leopard, reported no injuries.

Bodies recovered were those of Frank Krohn, second assistant engineer from San Francisco; Andrew Scheib, third mate from Los Angeles; and Richard McHugh, first assistant engineer from Portland, Ore.

Court Stands By KO Of State Sedition Laws

U.S. High Tribunal Refuses To Budge In Face Of Protests

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Supreme Court, in the face of widespread protest, refused today to reconsider its April 2 decision knocking out enforcement of state sedition laws.

Thirty-five states, Alaska and Allegheny County, Pa., had asked the court to reconsider and reverse itself.

In refusing to do this, the court put it up to Congress whether states, as well as the federal government, are to have the power to prosecute for sedition. Bills to nullify the effect of the April 2 decision and give the states this power are pending in both houses of Congress.

Dividing 6-3 the court held last month that state sedition laws have been superseded by the 1940 Smith Act and subsequent federal laws.

"Encroachment" Charged
This brought cries of federal "encroachment" from some state attorneys general along with demands for legislation "to preserve states' rights."

Forty-two states have some form of laws against sedition. So have Alaska, Hawaii and Guam.

In another action today, the court speeded up a little bit the long drawn out proceeding to require the Communist party to register as a tool of Moscow.

It granted a government petition to issue immediately its official notification—known as a mandate—of its April 30 decision which put off indefinitely a ruling on legality of the 1950 Communist registration law.

Anastasia Wins Round
The court today also:

1. Refused to review a decision of the U. S. Court of Appeals in Philadelphia which was in favor of Albert Anastasia, reputed head of the old Brooklyn Murder, Inc. mob.

U. S. Dist. Judge William F. Smith of Newark, N. J., ruled Anastasia had fraudulently attained his certificate of naturalization, but the appellate court reversed him.

2. Declined to rule on a University of Alabama challenge of an order requiring it to admit qualified Negroes as students. The university contended U. S. Dist. Judge H. H. Grooms of Birmingham lacked authority to issue the order. The university argued that federal law requires setting up of a special three-judge court to act in such cases.

Costello Begins Prison Sentence

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello, 65, who tried to avoid prison by claiming he is suffering from a new outbreak of cancer, surrendered today to serve a five-year term for income tax evasion.

Costello seemed nervous as he appeared at the office of U. S. Marshal Thomas J. Lunney with his attorney, Joseph Leary Delaney.

Asked by reporters how he felt, Costello replied: "I have no comment to make, not at the moment, anyway."

Costello was convicted in 1954 of evading $28,532 in income taxes for 1948 and 1949, and went all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court in his effort to get the conviction overturned. He also was fined $20,000.

Recently he sought unsuccessfully to avoid serving the sentence with doctors' affidavits that an old cancer condition had recurred and he needed treatment.

House Passes Record Farm Appropriation

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The House today passed a bill appropriating $1,983,512,568 for the Agriculture Department for the fiscal year starting July 1, and set three records in doing so.

It was the biggest appropriation ever voted for the department; it was passed in the record time of less than two hours, and it was the first time in modern history that no member even tried to amend a farm money bill.

Wilson, Radford See U. S. Holding Air Power Lead

Defense Chiefs Move To Pacify Rising Concern

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson, in a new pronouncement on air power, said today the United States has a superiority over Russia and he thinks it can be held.

The same opinion came from Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee: "I believe we can stay ahead of them."

Their statements, more confident in tone than some recent testimony by U. S. air generals, may be some reflection of what President Eisenhower had in mind when he informed his news conference May 4 that the country would feel a lot better about its air power position when the full story was presented.

Concern Has Been Rising

Concern has been mounting in Congress that the Soviet Union was outstripping the United States in the struggle for sky mastery. Several Pentagon chiefs have said recently that Russia was "closing the gap" in some phases of air power.

Wilson was asked for a fresh assessment when he appeared before the senators to support the administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The defense chief said the question "is always complicated" by measuring air power in numbers of planes. The comparison should be made in terms of quality and combat readiness, he said.

Building Rates Main Factor

Then he reported that the United States is ahead now, and the main question seems to be whether that will be true in 1960 at the current rate of buildup here and in the Soviet Union.

"We have superiority now," Wilson declared.

"Inside the family circle, we think we can maintain that, but not a great big superiority."

Wilson said Russia is expanding her industrial capacity and this country cannot stop that.

When Radford was invited to express his views, he said:

"As of today, I do not think the Communist nations have superior air power." He said he had "no reason to believe" that this country will lose its lead and will go into details at a secret session of the committee later.

Pope Approves Dead-To-Living Cornea Transfer

VATICAN CITY, May 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today approved transplant of corneas from dead to living eyes, but warned this should be done with prudence and care.

He did not speak on the transfer of these lenses from living persons, but indicated he might do so later.

The 80-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church, addressing 150 oculists, touched on the transplant of other tissues, including those of an animal to a human being, and warned: "Transplant of sexual glands from animals to man must be rejected as being immoral."

"On the contrary," he said, "the transplant of a nonhuman cornea to a human being raises no moral problem if it is biologically possible and indicated."

George To Serve As Ike's Personal Envoy To NATO

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) tonight accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to serve as his personal representative in development of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into something more than a military unit.

The White House announced George's acceptance after the 78-year-old chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had conferred with the President for an hour. George announced last week that he will not seek re-nomination.

Eisenhower promptly offered him a post as his personal representative, with the rank of ambassador, in NATO.

The White House announcement said George told Eisenhower tonight that he plans "to retain his present post in the Senate for the

Forces To Be Cut 1,200,000 In Next Year

Manpower To Be Used In Industry And Agriculture

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced tonight it would cut its armed forces within a year by 1,200,000 men and use the manpower in industry and agriculture.

A government statement said "other governments such as those of the United States, Britain and France wishing to contribute to the strengthening of peace, cannot but follow this example." It made no reference to armed forces slashes by Western powers since World War II.

The U.S.S.R. also reported it would disband three air divisions, put 375 ships of the Soviet navy into mothballs and disband a number of military training schools. It also said it would reduce its military budget, but gave no figure.

The statement, read to correspondents at a Foreign Ministry news conference, said:

"By undertaking these new reductions the Soviet government is striving to contribute to the practical carrying out of the disarmament program now under consideration in the United Nations."

The armed forces cut, to be in effect by May 1, 1957, involved 63 army divisions and three air divisions, including more than 30,000 men now stationed in Communist East Germany, and did not include the 640,000 the U.S.S.R. reported demobilized last year, the statement said.

Eve Of Mollet's Visit

The slash was announced on the eve of French Premier Guy Mollet's arrival in Moscow, and probably will be discussed with him during his four-day visit. Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev hinted last week to a group of visiting French Socialists that some such announcement was about to be made.

Leonid F. Ilyichev, the Foreign Ministry press chief, said he did not know how many would be left in the Soviet armed forces after the cut is completed, nor would he say how much of a percentage cut would be made in the military budget. He said the reduction would not show up until the 1957 budget. There was no information, either, on what type of ships would be put in mothballs or on how much sea power would remain.

The long statement contended the program "shows very well that the Soviet Union is a sincere and constant champion of peace and a sincere and constant champion of relaxation of international tension."

Further Cut Up To West

"The Soviet government would be ready to consider the question of a further reduction in case the United States, Britain and France carry out a proportionate reduction in their armed forces and armament," the Kremlin said.

"The Soviet Union believes that carrying out such measures would be a way of achieving disarmament and would establish real premises for the prohibition of atomic and nuclear weapons."

"Carrying out this great new decrease, the Soviet government proceeds from the fact that the forces of peace have grown strong and they are organized so they can repulse any attempt to violate the peace."

"At the same time the Soviet government expresses its confidence that our armed forces will safely guard the peaceful labor of our people and will not relax their vigilance."

Soviet Announcement Fails To Impress U.S.

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Russia's announcement that it would reduce its armed forces by 1,200,000 men within a year didn't cut much ice in Washington today.

A White House spokesman said the move would have more significance if the Soviets had been more cooperative at the London disarmament conference, which ended in disagreement 10 days ago.

The unofficial State Department reaction was that Russia appeared to be merely switching from military to economic methods of seeking world domination. The Kremlin announcement said the manpower drawn out of the armed forces would be diverted to industry and agriculture.

State Department officials were extremely cautious about accepting the announced Communist plans as concrete evidence of good faith—the "deeds, not words" that President Eisenhower has often called for.

Gov. Harriman Declares He'd Welcome Wyoming Support

[By The Associated Press]
Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, who has been saying for months that he is not an active candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said Monday that he'd welcome support from Wyoming.

"I'd be mighty proud" if the people of Wyoming wanted to support his candidacy, he said at Cody. He was there, on a Western tour, to keynote the Wyoming Democratic Convention. He repeated he is not an active candidate.

In other political developments: President Eisenhower got a formal invitation from Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco to attend the Republican convention which is expected to renominate him the week of Aug. 20. Christopher said Eisenhower similarly deferred a reply but "I think he will try to come out."

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said in the magazine Democratic Digest that Eisenhower's voter appeal has sagged. For one thing, Butler said, he wasn't able to win a Republican Congress in 1954 despite his "barnstorming campaign on behalf of his party's candidates."

"The Republican party has lost more ground and more elections (under Eisenhower) than under any other Republican president in history," Butler said.

Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver got set for a contest over the 16 votes Oregon will have in the Democratic National Convention.

They will appear on the same platform tonight at Eugene, at the University of Oregon. Oregon Democrats vote Friday with neither man on the ballot; it will be a write-in contest with convention delegates pledged to the primary winner.

Southern Rail Fare Increase Authorized

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the southern railroads to increase their basic passenger fares by 5 per cent effective at midnight (local time) tonight.

The commission said it had received no protests or requests for hearing in connection with the advance recently proposed by the lines.

The ICC allowed a similar 5 per cent hike in the basic passenger fares of eastern and western railroads effective May 1.

Famous Russian Writer Ends Life

MOSCOW, May 14 (AP)—The Communist party announced today that Alexander Fadeyev, 55, one of Russia's most famous writers, has committed suicide. He was an old Bolshevik of the Revolution.

The announcement, distributed by Tass, said the novelist had killed himself in a "fit of spiritual depression as a result of chronic alcoholism."

It was the first suicide of a noted writer announced here since the poet Vladimir Mayakovsky killed himself in 1930.

Louisiana Vote Registrar Fired

BATON ROUGE, La., May 14 (AP)—Gov. Robert Kennon said today the woman registrar of voters of Webster Parish, under fire from pro-segregation groups, had been fired.

The Webster Parish police jury unanimously requested the state Board of Registration to fire Mrs. Winnie Clement of Minden.

She has resigned effective tomorrow, the same day Gov. elect Earl K. Long takes office.

But Kennon and Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham, two of the three members of the board, signed an order dismissing her today.

The White Citizens Councils complained last January Mrs. Clement had failed to enforce voter qualification restrictions requiring registrants to read and interpret portions of either the state or federal constitution.

This requirement has been ignored over most of the state. It was originally designed to curb Negro voting.

After criticism, Mrs. Clement applied the law uniformly to both races and disqualified 24 white persons. She contended "what's fair for one race is fair for the other."

High Court Upholds Wheat Inspectors

WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—Four Maryland farmers were turned down today in their bid for Supreme Court help in barring government wheat inspectors from their property.

Agents attempted to determine the acreage planted in wheat in May, 1955 but were ordered off the property.

Lower federal courts ordered the farmers to permit inspection, the court holding it was a necessary part of the federal program to avoid surpluses and shortages.

The appeal by Lewis Shafer Sr. and his sons, Lindsay, Lewis, Joseph Shafer contended the wheat program represented federal power unwisely and unconstitutionally used.

'Phony Lineup' Probe Ordered

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—Mayor D'Alesandro called today for an investigation of a "phony lineup" staged by Park Police on the complaint of a Negro woman who said she was assaulted by a park policeman.

The mayor directed park officials to make a "thorough and prompt" investigation.

At the same time, park officials called in Capt. S. Gordon Gaeng for a further explanation of the phony lineup in which he said he purposely excluded the officer suspected because "I had reason to believe these people were trying to finger one of my men."

The alleged assault occurred last Aug. 29. The lineup took place in October.

Charles Hook, superintendent of parks, who called in Capt. Gaeng for an explanation, said he had not heard of the case until another park policeman reported it to one of Hook's deputies.

The case started with the complaint of a 29-year-old Negro woman who said she had been ordered from a friend's car in Gwynns Falls Park by a white park policeman.

She said the officer then drove her to a wooded section and made indecent proposals. She said she complained to police shortly afterwards and the case underwent extensive investigation.

The lineup was held at Clifton Park headquarters of the park police in October. The woman viewed more than 20 men, including some policemen. But Capt. Gaeng said the prime suspect was not included in the group. The woman did not identify anyone in the lineup as her attacker.

Negro Girl Kidnaped, Raped By White Men

MAGNOLIA, Miss., May 14 (AP)—Four white men were charged today with kidnaping a 16-year-old Negro girl and taking her to a remote section of a swamp on the Mississippi-Louisiana line where three of them raped her at gunpoint.

The bizarre story unfolded today after the arrest of Ernest Dillon, 29, of McComb; Olen Duncan, 21, and Duroa Duncan, a cousin, both of Tylertown. All three were formally charged with kidnaping and rape. The fourth man, Ollie Dill, 44, of Tylertown, a brother of Ernest, was charged with kidnaping.

Sheriff Bill Andrews said three of them have signed statements regarding the crime.

Arm Of Boy Caught In Wringer, Fractured

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—The arm of a 5-year-old boy was caught in a wringer for nearly a half hour today before police freed him.

Jay Simms was taken to Union Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a fractured arm.

The arm was trapped up to the elbow in a washing machine wringer in the basement of his home.

Mahoney Indicates He'll Keep Running For Office

BALTIMORE, May 14 (AP)—While Democrats awaited completion of the official canvass before setting the date for their State convention, George P. Mahoney, the party's No. 1 office seeker, indicated today he will keep on running for office.

The Baltimore County contractor, who last Saturday conceded defeat to Millard E. Tydings in the Democratic primary race for the U.S. Senate nomination, had said during the campaign he would not run again if he lost this time.

Mahoney lost the nomination by the narrowest of four mighty narrow defeats for statewide office. He and Tydings tied with 76 units votes each, but Tydings won the popular vote total, 142,551 to 133,995 on the basis of still unofficial but conclusive returns.

On April 27, Mahoney was quoted on a campaign speech that "if you decide you don't want me, I won't come back anymore — I won't impose on you again."

Today, he interpreted his remarks to mean he would not run again if he received a complete repudiation at the polls.

"You wouldn't call a 76-to-76 tie evidence that the people didn't want me, would you?" Mahoney asked.

He said he had often made the remark about not coming back if the voters said they did not want him. But in each case, he added, his supporters came out and voted for him and that did not seem to him evidence they did not want him. He said this year was no exception.

And so, Maryland voters can expect to see Mahoney's name on the ballot again. Whether it will be for governor in 1958 or another try for the senate the same year, Mahoney didn't say.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, who backed Mahoney's bid for the Senate nomination, is expected to run for governor in 1959. And Dr. H. C. Byrd, former president of the University of Maryland, has announced he will again try for the gubernatorial nomination.

There's also been talk that Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore will go after the nomination for the Senate in 1958.

Four Boys Held At Keyser For Thefts In School

Ransacked Rooms And Stole $400

KEYSER, W. Va.—Four Keyser youths, ranging in ages from 14 to 17, have been arrested by city and West Virginia State Police following the breaking and entering of Keyser Elementary School buildings over the weekend.

Chief of Police Guy Clem, who began the investigation following the discovery that the school buildings had been ransacked, said one of the boys was picked up early yesterday morning and the other three were taken into custody later in the day.

Investigating the case along with Clem are Cpl. Evan Moody and Trooper Charles Oliver of the state police.

Chief Clem said that approximately $400 in bills and coins was taken from the two elementary school buildings by the youngsters who later divided the money. Nearly $200 had been recovered last night by police.

Police said one of the boys had admitted breaking into the buildings, saying the culprits had picked the lock of a door to enter one building, then ransacked all the class rooms.

Afterwards they crossed to the other building by a runway connecting the two and entered a window, again ransacking the class rooms. Money was found in desks of teachers and represented funds collected for extra curricular work, school lunches and other items.

The discovery was made by the school janitor early yesterday morning and reported to police. The four boys now in jail have indicated that others may be implicated, Chief Clem said. All are from Keyser.

The boys will be given a hearing before Judge Ernest A. See in Juvenile Court sometime this week.

Fire Damages Oakland Hotel

A fire early yesterday caused damage estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000 to the Manhattan Hotel in Oakland.

The fire was first noticed at approximately 2 a.m. by an unidentified motorist who rushed into the hotel to warn the night clerk to call the Oakland Fire Company.

Fire Chief Emory Bolden said flames were coming through at the roof of the two story and attic structure when the company arrived at the scene.

Most of the 20 guests had been alerted to the danger and were safely outside, Chief Bolden stated, although some had to be assisted down ladders.

Companies from Kingwood and Terra Alta, W. Va., and Deer Park and Gorman in Maryland assisted in fighting the blaze which took more than two hours to be brought under control. The roof of the building was destroyed and six rooms were gutted, according to Chief Bolden.

Former Resident Invited To Fort Frederick Event

Mrs. George L. Bennett and her daughter, Corinne, Frederick, were platform guests at the ceremonies of rededication of Old Fort Frederick, near Big Pool, Sunday. Mrs. Bennett is the daughter of the late John M. Niland, prominent B and O Railroad official, and Mrs. Niland, who resided in Washington. She is a direct descendant of Captain Moses Chapline, commander of the fort during the French and Indian War. Holding extensive land grants in Frederick county, the Chapline family laid out the towns of Sharpsburg, Wheeling, W. Va. and Morristown, Ohio. Boonsboro is situated on land once part of Chapline Manor. On display at the fort is an original muster roll, of the "Antietam Hundred," soldiers mustered under the command of Captain Moses Chapline, in 1749 to combat the Indian raids. Found in one of the Chapline homes, it now is the property of the Washington County Historical Society.

A Tribute To Mothers

Abraham Lincoln said, "all that I am, or ever can be, I owe to my mother". And that, we think, sums up what all of us think about our mothers. It isn't only on Mother's Day that we should revere the name and memory of Mother. Every minute of every day we should unstintingly show our love and endeavor to make her life easier and happier. If your Mother has passed on, show that her memory still lives in your heart. Visit the cemetery frequently and lay lovely living flowers on the sacred spot where she sleeps forever. This will be a token payment of all she did for you.

Drivers' Judgment And Accident Ratio

Results of a recent change in the traffic pattern in New York City indicate that today the less drivers are called upon to use their judgment the fewer accidents there will be.

That seems to be the only possible conclusion to draw from the shift-over of six two-way streets to one-way traffic. Records show accidents on the six dropped as much as 40 per cent after the change.

Experts explain that the absence of traffic moving in the opposite direction relieved drivers of the need to make many decisions. All they had to do was cope with cars moving the same way. In this case, drivers were helped also by a progressive traffic signal system which eliminates many stops and starts, thus putting less strain on the man at the wheel.

Faced with a signal system in which a number of lights change simultaneously, a driver is likely to get into difficulties in deciding whether he can beat the light at the next corner by speeding up or changing to another lane.

In the progressive signal system these decisions are made for him. The driver knows that his best hope of steady progress is for him to stay within the rate of speed set for traffic on the particular thoroughfare.

Actually, there's no need to go to New York for proof of this. On any busy street anywhere the judgment of the individual driver can complicate traffic, if not cause an accident.

Russell's Qualifications

Bertrand Russell is a British mathematician and philosopher. He is not a jurist nor is he an expert on American affairs. He once came to China for a year or so and wrote a book on the subject—a book which did not display particular perspicacity with regard to the politics of the Far East.

Back in 1940, he came to the United States to accept a post as professor of philosophy at City College of New York which started a rumpus, got into the courts and the court decided that Russell should not be appointed to a professorship at City College for the following reasons:

"Considering Dr. Russell's principles with reference to the Penal Law of the State of New York, it appears that not only would the morals of the students be undermined, but his doctrines would tend to bring them, and in some cases their parents and guardians, in conflict with the Penal Law, and accordingly this court intervenes."

However, Harvard came to the rescue and Bertrand Russell was appointed to a half-term as lecturer in philosophy and semantics. Russell's qualifications as a mathematician and philosopher are accepted in academic circles as notable. Among his other honors is the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1950. He has written a large number of books, but probably his most important is his "Principia Mathematica" published in 1910. What his qualifications for the following statement are do not appear from the facts of his life:

"I am writing to enlist your support in the case of Morton Sobell, an innocent man condemned as a result of political hysteria to 30 years in jail and at present incarcerated in Alcatraz the worst prison in the United States. He was sentenced as an accomplice of the Rosenbergs in espionage . . ."

The Rosenberg case was tried before a court and jury and there were a number of appeals reaching the Supreme Court of the United States. Russell takes for granted that the Rosenbergs were innocent and he goes on to say:

. . . Sobell, however, is alive and it is not too late for the United States Government to make some reparation now."

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and Morton Sobell had their day in court, represented by counsel, before a jury and were found guilty. They were allowed numerous appeals in accordance with American jurisprudence and our concepts of due process of the law. The convictions of the Rosenbergs and Sobell were according to due process of law. The United States has no laws segregating political criminals from other criminals.

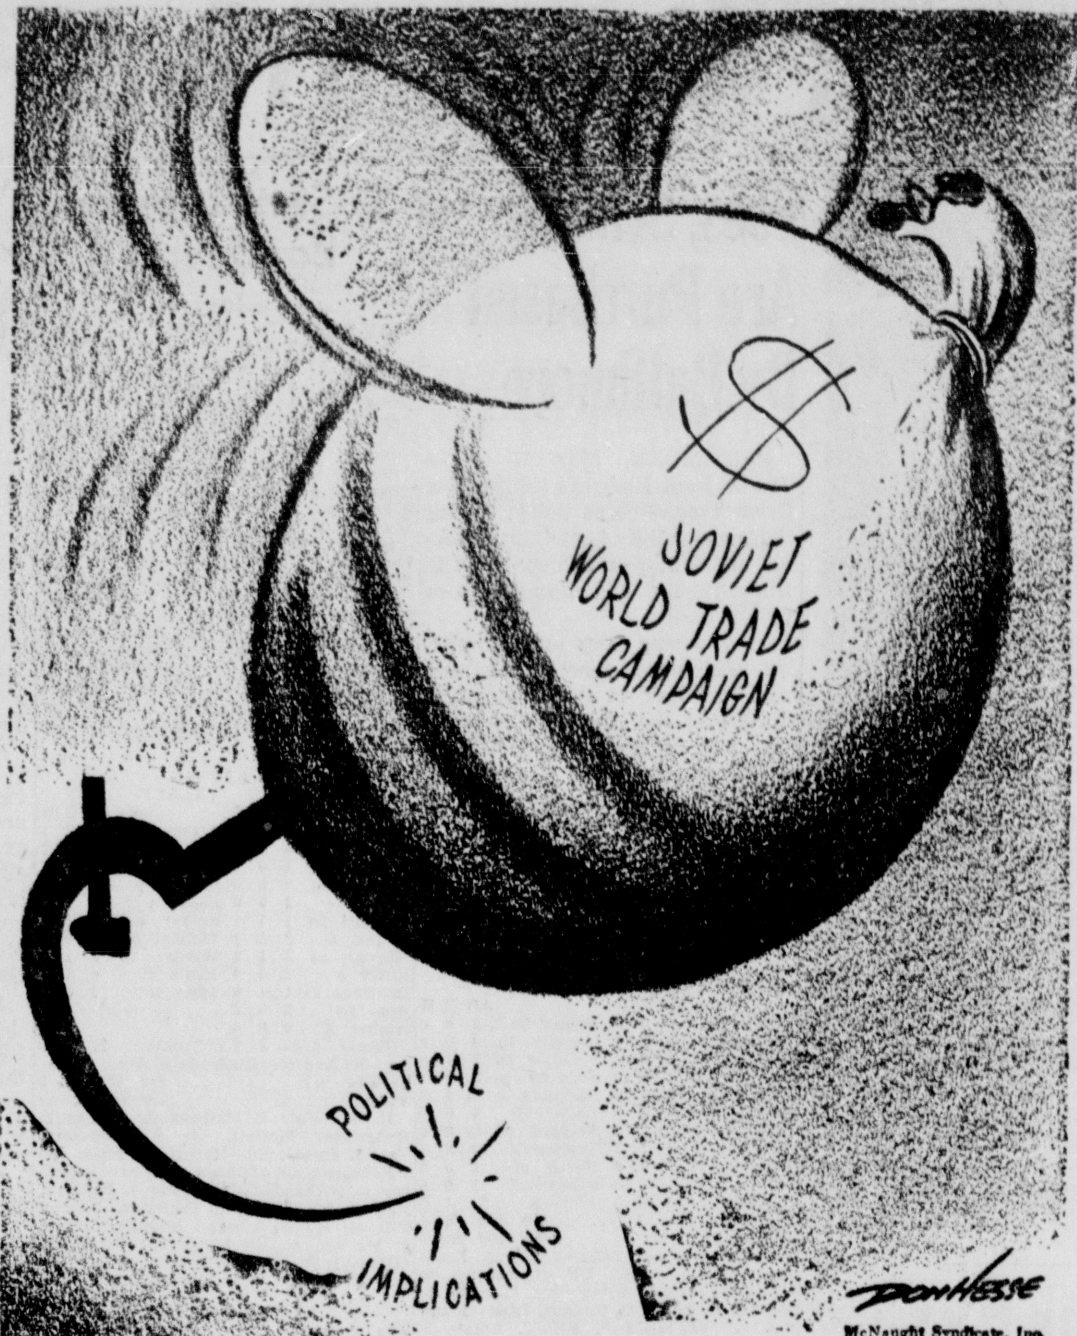

Bertrand Russell, in this letter from which I quote, addressed to the editor of the Manchester Guardian, describes conditions in the United States which do not exist here at all. His letter shows no effort to investigate his assertions but does display a willingness to accept charges against our government, our courts, the FBI, for which there is no basis in fact. No police system is without injustice or without unfortunate errors, but the injustices and errors are not such as Bertrand Russell describes. For instance, he says:

"Perjury is especially useful as a lever because many people who have been Communists in their student days rashly hope that this can be concealed and swear they were never Communists. After a sufficient number of secret interviews the FBI descends upon innocent people with a posse of terrified perjurers and in the general hysteria every word uttered by the perjurers is accepted as gospel truth."

It would be of value if Bertrand Russell quoted chapter and verse, specific cases, exact procedures. If his letter is so exaggerated in its conclusions that two Americans devoted to civil liberties, Harold P. Green, formerly of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Irving Ferman, Washington, D. C., director of the American Civil Liberties Union, wrote to the same newspaper protesting against Russell's generalizations.

Their letter ends on this paragraph: "Mr. Russell forgets, apparently, that it was the confession of Fuchs in England which led almost directly to the Rosenbergs and Sobell in New York. In addition, Fuchs, Gold, Slack, Elitcher, and the Greenclasses have all confessed to their own roles in the conspiracy. Such confessions are, in Anglo-American jurisprudence, fully admissible in evidence, an admissibility they have been repudiated by any confessor or rejected by any court." It is unfortunate that so great a mind as Bertrand Russell's nods so.

Dulles Plan Termed Of Far-Reaching Importance

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It will dawn on the world soon that a plan of far-reaching importance—perhaps even more significant in the long run than the Marshall Plan—has just been unfolded by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

When first mentioned several days ago, it was vaguely described in official pronouncements as a means of "broadening NATO." This was erroneously interpreted in many quarters, here and abroad, to mean that emphasis on the military side of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was being abandoned altogether and that henceforth there would be increased attention to economic help in some new spending program by the United States.

But it turns out that neither impression was correct and that what the United States now is proposing is the development of a new instrumentality for the exercise of moral force in the world paralleling, though not supplanting, the United Nations itself.

Recognition Of Handicaps

Basically, the new approach can be interpreted as a realistic recognition of the handicaps imposed by the very universality of the United Nations. Its cumbersome voting procedures sometimes only accentuate factionalism. Also, the logrolling within the U.N. creates balances of power and rival groups in "power politics."

By utilizing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Council, however, as a political entity, there is a chance for agreement among a smaller group of nations which in emergencies can make their influence felt more effectively and more promptly. For, after all, back of the NATO Council is military potentiality—something the United Nations Security Council lacks because of the misuse of the veto power by the Soviet Union.

The scope of any which is in an intangible stage cannot be defined too sharply at the outset. But already, from a careful reading of the masterful speech of the American secretary of state, it is possible to say that additional economic as well as military cooperation need not be ruled out as a sequel to the plan. Indeed, once there is a strong political union of states, action to implement military as well as economic programs becomes logical. Whether this be by the use of private or governmental capital is not to be decided till later stages, when unity is well on the road to accomplishment. Nor is the plan at variance with U.N. objectives, as the secretary of state himself pointed out in his speech.

Fortnight Plan

What stands out as the sensational significance of the "Dulles plan" is the forthright manner in which it seeks to deal with the Soviet Union's mischief-making not only in the Middle East but in Asia.

Thus, if the European nations which are members of NATO stand together, they can, through the Council, bring a conciliatory influence and a constructive mediation to bear in such disputes as Cyprus and Algeria which tend otherwise to weaken NATO militarily. While these are internal questions, legally speaking, they involve external factors. Neither France nor Britain, for example, would be compelled to accept the help of the other members of NATO in such disputes, but there would be an opportunity, through new ways and means, to bring about solutions.

For it is obvious that if the Middle East's oil is shut off from Western Europe, NATO's military strength suffers. It becomes of vital concern, therefore, to NATO to find, if possible, an early solution to the Middle East crisis. Likewise, the problems of Asia are interwoven in European problems. Hence the emergence of a

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

If you're touring to Europe these free and independent days there will be a slight quizzation on the wharf.

Mr. Whiskers has tacked a postscript on your traveling map. It's an interrogatory biography in one line. It reads, "Have you ever been a member of the Communist party?"

Were you a worker in the hive or a drone in a cell? Either way you must affirm in the nodative or evade in the infinitive.

You're not going to pull that good old Fifth Amendment over your head like an old fashioned nightgown. This time Mr. Whiskers wants it on the line like toes on scratch.

You've got to buzz aye, nay or good red herring. And I quote that eminent author, myself, who wrote, "If the answer intends to incriminate and degrade you that's not the fault of the question."

Let your conscience be your guide. We can always send out a rescue expedition.

(Distributed By INS)

compact group of nations with common interests, through the new functions to be given to the NATO Council, means less chance to place all the burdens of the world on America's "leadership"—a word that the critics so often refer to in disparagement as they sometimes seek to divert attention from the shortcomings of their own governments in world affairs.

No super-government, but rather an effective alliance, is what Mr. Dulles envisages. He says:

"It would not require different personalities at the council table, but a different approach and far greater 'depth' in terms of political advisers than is now the case. But above all is the basic decision to take seriously the unity of the Atlantic community and seek to promote it, not by super-government but by common counsel. Such a decision has not yet been taken, except in military terms."

Details Not Given

Mr. Dulles purposely avoids giving details at this time but says that, under the new concept of NATO, the members "could generate greater dynamism to help, in acceptable ways, to sustain political and economic independence elsewhere."

This, then, is what the United States means by "broadening NATO." President Eisenhower fully supports the "Dulles plan." It always takes time for the full import of new ideas in diplomacy to sink in. But the plan will be welcomed in Europe. It meets boldly some of the comments of those critics who have themselves been groping recently for a way to de-emphasize military force and re-emphasize moral force. It means reliance on a community of peoples, acting together in a common cause, to build a world opinion which conceivably can reach even behind the iron curtain.

Juvenile Reaction To Polio "Shots" Is Explained

By Dr. Theodore R. Van DeHem

If your physician's office is noisier nowadays, blame the Salk vaccine. Children are yelling louder and longer than ever before when the "shots" are given. Their behavior is difficult to explain because the technique is the same as for other injections, the needles are just as sharp, and the vaccine is not irritating.

A Chicago pediatrician believes the reaction is psychological, stemming from the widespread publicity of the serum received and the ensuing dinner table conversation on the subject. The announcement of an effective vaccine against poliomyelitis appeared last year in an unprecedented fashion. Newspapers, magazines, television, and radio gave priority to the news.

Some of these reports clarified the issue but others caused confusion.

Physicians were swamped with telephone calls from parents, clamoring for the injections and much time was spent in attempting to explain a situation that the physician himself did not understand too well. Never before has the medical profession been called upon to give professional advice about a topic on which he had such meager access to factual data.

The result was that an undercurrent of uncertainty and speculation permeated the homes of potential recipients of the new vaccine.

The dramatic debut of the preventive was followed in Chicago, for example, by another announcement: mass inoculation of school children was planned. Physicians again were besieged with the question: "Shall I allow my children to have the vaccine?"

Matters of life and death are not considered lightly and the medico does not make recommendations unless he is certain of his ground. As the extensive mass inoculation program got under way, general consternation subsided gradually into uncertain acceptance.

Then reports of unfavorable reactions began to appear and the earlier doubts became more outspoken. As a result, there was harmful criticism of the entire plan. Once more, the family physician was asked by anxious parents to decide, "Should I or shouldn't I?"

The youngsters were caught in the middle and placed in an untenable and undesired position of fear and doubt. Uninhibited older children have contributed to the panic by letting their imaginations run riot. They imbued the younger members of the family with fear, not only of the reaction to the "shots" but with the possibility of developing the disease thereafter.

But the situation will change with time and the vaccine will be accepted just as are the preventive injections against whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, and smallpox. TOMORROW: The lighter side of medicine.

Farm-Bred Oklahoma Congressman Makes Big Money In Real Estate

By Drew Pearson

city of the Air Force Academy in Colorado; and now has bought and sold within a year a neat parcel of land on which the Geological Survey wants to build a huge laboratory.

Has Magic Touch

Just where the farm-reared congressman from Mangum, Okla., gets this magic touch, and how he knows in advance that government installations are going to be built in certain places is the point this column was investigating when the congressman had his friends rush into print regarding his latest land deal which netted him $185,000.

Here is the real story of this deal—including some of the details Wickersham's friends omitted.

For some time the Geological Survey had been eyeing a spot near Great Falls on the Potomac River which it considered ideal for its hydrological laboratory which must be near a river. Discreet inquiries indicated the land, formerly the site of an old gold mine, could be acquired for $600 to $800 an acre. However, government red tape held up the deal.

Meanwhile, Congressman Wickersham got busy. He asked the agency to inform him of its plans and recommendations for future building, and the agency obediently sent him a map showing four possible locations for the new laboratory.

Obviously the map was confidential; for the good reason that the government didn't want to tip off land speculators. Furthermore it's illegal for a congressman to sell land to the government. This law was passed for the specific purpose of preventing congressmen with inside tips from becoming speculators themselves.

Price Goes Up

While the Geological Survey itself couldn't buy the land, the General Services Administration, which does the buying, usually follows the recommendation of the agency wanting the land, especially in this case when the site, for technical reasons, has to be near water.

Wickersham on May 31, 1955, just a year ago, got in ahead of the government and bought up the desired site. He bought 376 and 1/2 acres for $242,500, deeded to his wife Jessie.

Later, on March 14, 1956, Wickersham sold all but about 10 acres to a Michigan contractor, J. Robert Swanson, for $427,500—a whopping profit of $185,000.

It would have been a violation of the law for Wickersham to have sold to the government direct. Despite denials, it is obvious that the Michigan contractor knew from Wickersham that the government wanted the land or he would not have paid such a price.

Now that speculators have beat the government to the punch and doubled the price, the General Services Administration and Geological Survey have three alternatives. They can acquire land someplace else. They can pay through the nose by meeting the Wickersham-Swanson inflated price. Or they can condemn the land and fix a fair price.

Probably in view of all the publicity, GSA will adopt the latter course. If the land was acquired by condemnation it would bring about half of what Swanson paid for it, in which case Swanson would be left holding the bag.

The shrewd congressman who was "reared on a cotton, wheat, and dairy farm" in Oklahoma has already got his $185,000 profit.

Diplomatic Pouch

U.S. agents report that Communist party boss Khrushchev made a second, much stronger speech against Stalin in secret. In the second speech, Khrushchev accused Stalin of being more anti-Semitic than Hitler. Just before he died, Stalin planned to ship all Russian Jews to Siberia, according to Khrushchev. . . . Chinese Communists have infiltrated the two northern provinces of Laos in such numbers that they have practically taken over the local government. It is only a matter of time, American observers report, before there will be a North Laos—just like North Korea and North Viet Nam. . . . U.S. Ambassador John Lodge has reported that Dictator Franco is having trouble keeping student and labor agitators under control. Franco made a personal inspection trip across Spain to seek and stamp out any signs of revolt. . . . The House Foreign Affairs Committee has ordered a confidential investigation of corruption and favoritism in foreign-aid contracts, particularly to Japan and Korea.

Sheik Ahmed's Camp

By Joseph Alsop

ON THE SYRIAN-TURKISH-IRAQ BORDER

In this place Iraz ends in a green sea of winter wheat extending, as though to high seacoasts, as far as the purple mountains where Syria and Turkey begin. The green sea is bright under the spring sun, wave-tossed by light winds, and dotted with countless little island-like mounds.

The mounds are sites of immemorially ancient villages that raised themselves from the surrounding plain, on their own debris and over a period of many centuries until some accident of history or climate wiped out all their people. Now there is little sign of human habitation except on a single mound where stands a cluster of tents.

Here is the spring camp of Ahmed bin Ajil Alaywar Almuhammad, sheik of the 60,000 Bedouin of the Shammar tribe who have their black tents and pasture their million or more camels, sheep and goats in the wide deserts of central Iraq.

Sheik Ahmed's camp, with its huge living tent with gilded pole tops and its dining tent that can seat 30 people, is the scene of a continuous houseparty. The hosts are Sheik Ahmed and his brothers, tall men, and fine looking in their flowing Arab robes and head cloths.

For guests there are the Indian ambassador, a brisk German lady who descants on neutralism while the American ambassador listens amiably; the Rabiya Emirs, great tribal leaders and landholders of the South; and a whole floating population of notables of the province who seems to turn up and go away as they please. One of them is the aged, white-bearded Sheik Khalaf Anlar of the Yezidis, an odd but ancient local minority who worship the devil under the name of the "Peacock Angel," abhor the color blue, and hold lettuce eating a mortal sin.

Luncheon Dish Counts Too

Sheik Khalaf has come to consult Sheik Ahmed about the novel problems of mechanized agriculture; but at luncheon it becomes clear that the customary luncheon dish at Sheik Ahmed's camp is at least a secondary consideration in Sheik Khalaf's long journey. And no wonder, for this is an imperial "kousy"—a dish larger than most table tops, filled with a mountain of rice and topped with two whole roast young lambs, meltingly tender under the fingers, with their rich stuffing of spiced rice and raisins and almonds and bits of liver lying all about them.

Yet the mechanized farming which Sheik Ahmed patiently explains to Sheik Khalaf still provides the real drama of this strange encampment. And thereby hangs a tale, which Sheik Ahmed tells, not without humor and self-deprecation, in the intervals of the long bright lazy day.

In the years after the first war, when Iraz was made a nation, one of its great men was Sheik Ajil, father of Sheik Ahmed. Battle-scarred veteran of half a dozen tribal wars and of Bedouin raids past counting, Sheik Ajil yet persuaded the wild Shammar to accept the new order. He was the friend of King Feisal I, and the king rewarded him with all the wide lands hereabouts, where the House of Alaywar Almuhammad still holds something like half a million acres. Here Sheik Ajil pastured his vast flocks, and his dining tent held, not 30, but 300 of his tribespeople.

During the Second World War, when Sheik Ahmed was only 17, the great Sheik Ajil died suddenly; and the sheikdom of the Shammar passed to his eldest son. But the new sheik was bored by his authority and unthrifty in his affairs, and he drifted until the final crisis came and he laid down his sheikdom. As his successor, the government nominated the head of another branch of the Alaywar House. But the Shammar would have none of the government's nominee, and in three months the sheikdom passed on again, this time to Sheik Ahmed.

Formulas Do Not Apply

The year was good. The yield was rich. Since then, Sheik Ahmed has continuously expanded his farming operation until he and his brothers today have over 90,000 acres in wheat and barley, with 18 tractors and as many American combines in their shops, 5 irrigation pumps to put water on their other lands along the Tigris to the south of here, and a whole agricultural empire to rule over. And all this has been accomplished in less than eight years.

Sheik Ahmed still spends most of his summers in the black tents of the Shammar in the desert. Then, nothing seems very different from the old days. Yet underneath, everything is as different as possible. By revolutionizing the whole relationships, the very brilliance of Sheik Ahmed's success, the good results of his wisdom and energy, have created a long range of knotty, novel problems for the Shammar and for him. So the moral of this tale of Sheik Ahmed is that the pat Western formulas do not apply in a country like Iraq.

Cards Trade Hemus For Bobby Morgan

PHILADELPHIA, May 14 (AP)—Bobby Morgan was traded to the St. Louis Cardinals for Solly Hemus today by the Philadelphia Phillies.

The swap of utility infielders completed a deal engineered last week by general managers Frank Lane of St. Louis and Roy Hamey of Philadelphia which began with the announcement Friday of a trade involving five pitchers.

Herman Wehmeier and Murry Dickson of the Phillies went to St. Louis for Harvey Haddix, Stu Miller and Ben Flowers. Actually Morgan and Hemus were to have been included in the announcement but a technicality held it up until today.

Hamey explained that Hemus had been placed on the waiver list by St. Louis and the deal could not be completed until the waivers expired.

The G. M. also announced that Bob Ross, a left handed pitcher purchased conditionally from Chattanooga had been returned to the Southern Association team, and Wally Westlake, veteran outfielder, had been given his unconditional release.

Mountain Top easily whipped LaVale, 1589-85x to 1173-43x, in a home range contest. Don Helbig's 399-28x at Oakland topped the winners. On the local range, Jack Fulk's 395-17x was best for LaVale. The telescopic sight match consisted of 40 shots fired on the 100 yard International target. Match No. 2 will be held in two weeks with all teams in action on the Morningside Drive range.

Army Engineers Seek Bids On Pumping Units

Ridgeley, Mill Race Stations To Be Built

The Corps of Engineers is advertising for bids for the construction of the final two pumping stations needed for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program. It will be one of the final contracts of the $18,000,000 project. Remaining work in the Potomac River, it is understood, is to be let in either one or two contracts. Bids for the East Ridgeley and the Mill Race pumping stations will be opened by the Army Engineers in Washington June 5 at 2 p. m. This will be the second contract to be awarded this year. The George F. Hazelwood Company last week was notified to proceed on a $2,854,253.60 contract for Section 4 of the Wills Creek Channel phase of the work.

Three Contracts Let

Work on two other contracts, Wills Creek Channel Sections 2 and 3, and Potomac River Section 1, is being pushed by the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago.

Rex E. Dexter, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers, said the East Ridgeley pumping unit will be located in the rear of Poling's store and the Mill Race station in Cumberland, between the C & O Canal locks and the Western Maryland-B&O interchange bridge.

Work is to be completed in 360 days. The pumping stations are to have reinforced concrete substructures and brick superstructures, with control chambers and motor operated sluice gates.

The Mill Race station will be furnished with three 37,000 gallon a minute pumps, and the Ridgeley unit with two 32,300 gallon a minute water pumps.

The specifications call for tying in a number of existing lines in to the pumping stations and for necessary manholes.

Are Standby Units

It is estimated the job will require about 2,480 yards of concrete, about 345,000 pounds of reinforcing steel, some 25,000 cubic yards of excavation and about 19,500 yards of fill.

A third pumping station—located at the B&O Viaduct is included in the Wills Creek channel contract awarded to Albrecht.

The pumping stations are being provided to pump combined storm and sanitary water over the banks of floor walls and levees when pressure from high water in the streams prevents storm sewers from emptying by gravity.

Glass Plant Work Moving At Rapid Pace

Target Dates Set For PPG's Works 7

Improved weather has enabled work to progress rapidly on the Cumberland plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, according to an article in the May issue of Pittsburgh People.

W. L. Heineman, Works 7 project engineer, reported big advances have been made in recent weeks on outside work on the $34,000,000 plant.

The construction schedule calls for the "hot end" of the plant—which includes the batch house, tank and lehr—to be in operation by mid-summer.

The target date for operation of the grinders, polishers and ware-room has been set early in 1957. Brickwork on the main substation for the plant has been completed and crews are installing transformer and switch gear equipment.

Excellent progress was reported also on brick work and steel erection for the glass melting plant, and installation of batch-weighing and handling equipment is substantially complete.

Electrical equipment is being installed for the tank and lehr substation and structural steel is going up on the sand graders and grinders building.

As the article was written, plans were being made to install equipment in the lehr and cooling conveyor and the rough glass buildings in the "hot end" of the plant.

Bonnell May Be Named To Head Revamped SRC

Reorganization Set By Executive Order

ANNAPOLIS, May 14 (AP)—Robert O. Bonnell, the Baltimore business man who helped map a state port authority, may be named head of a reorganized Maryland State Roads Commission before the end of the week, it was learned today.

Sources close to Gov. McKeldin confirmed that Bonnell is under consideration for the job and that his appointment may be imminent in a wholesale reorganization of the present roads commission.

He would become director of highways for the State at a reported salary of $25,000 and be given broad authority over commission operations. Two members would serve with him in an advisory capacity.

The reorganization will involve removal of the present three-man commission made up of Chairman Russell H. McCain, Edgar T. Bennett and Bramwell Kelly, it was understood.

Will Follow Report

Reorganization of the commission would be along lines recommended by the Green Commission on State Programs, Organization and Finance last November. The Legislature received similar proposals at its last two sessions but neither was enacted.

McKeldin, who has expressed a desire to change the commission set up in view of the State's mushrooming roads program and frequent criticism aimed at its operations, plans to accomplish the reorganization by executive order.

Will Retain Name

The commission will retain its present name.

The governor contemplated such a change last summer and offered the post to Russell H. Davis, commissioner of personnel, who decided to remain in his present job. The project was later deferred after a series of cases involving land speculation in State highway rights of way came up.

McCain, a Frederick engineer, has been chairman of the three-member commission since 1951 when Gov. McKeldin elevated him from commission member. He originally was appointed to the SRC by Gov. Lane. His salary is $15,000 compared to the $25,000 the new director will receive.

Shafer Pigeon Is Race Winner

Two pigeons from the Lost Loft of Dudley Shafer finished first and second in the third old bird race of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, a 175-mile flight from Athens, Ohio, to Cumberland.

Some 174 birds from 12 lofts participated in the race. The birds made fast speed with the winners trapping fast and the overly distances the deciding factor.

"Little One" from the Lost Loft was the winner with a speed of 1,577.3 yards per minute. "My Angel," the other fast pigeon from Shafer's loft was timed in 1,574.72 yards per minute.

Others among the top 10 were "Pet," from the Excello Loft of M. M. Green, 1,573.51 yards; "Ebony," also from Excello Loft, 1,571.68 yards; "Sharon K," from Braddock Loft of Charles Smith, 1,571.49 yards; "Kansas City Silver," from MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, 1,569.54 yards; "Dee Jay," from Columbia Loft of Robert Kuffner, 1,569.20 yards; "White Flight," from Wing Ridge Loft of R. L. Spiker, 1,568.61 yards; "Little Joe," from MacArthur Loft, 1,568.22 yards, and "Jay S," from Little Prince Loft of Joseph Diggs, 1,567.24 yards.

The next race will be a 225-mile event for yearling birds from Chillicothe, Ohio.

Heart Group Re-Elects Officers

New Names Appear On Director List

Officers of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association were re-elected last night at the annual meeting of the directors and general membership.

The only change was the election of a second vice-president William Preston of Frostburg.

Ernest B. Treat is president, Earl Zepp, Oakland, first vice president, Thomas F. Conlon Sr., treasurer, and Mrs. Rachel James, secretary.

At the membership meeting the annual election of directors resulted in the following: Representing Garrett County on the board are Charles C. Bender, Daniel W. Hersherberger, and Mrs. Wilda Fahney, Grantsville; D. W. DeWeese, William Hessen, Earl Zepp and Thomas Cain, all of Oakland.

Representing Allegany County are Robert E. Barnard, Howard Buchanan, John Coburn, Thomas F. Conlon Sr., William H. Eisenberger, Theodore P. Foote, John E. Geare, Mrs. A. W. German, Mrs. Rachel James, B. Frank Maiden, William Preston, Dr. Benedict Skitarellic, Ernest B. Treat, F. Allan Weatherholt and William A. Wilson.

Budget, activity and other reports were made at the meeting, and Clyde Arbogast, state director of the Maryland Heart Association spoke. Arbogast presented a number of certificates to members of the association for outstanding work done during the recent campaign. These special awards went to Dr. Skitarellic, Bender, Hersherberger and Preston, and he said others were to be presented but the recipients had been unable to attend because they were out of the city last night.

In the adoption of several changes in by-laws, the membership instructed the board to hold regular monthly meetings to be called by the president, and introduced several other minor changes in by-laws, designed to keep pace with the broadening activities of the association.

The company, he said, essentially is a cellulose acetate producing organization, and is making every effort to find an outlet for its CA, characterized as its "life blood."

During the time, Wolff said, the company provided jobs for many affected employees through substitute work.

A second line was started up for the manufacture of plastic CA for the Belvidere and Newark plants. This restored jobs for 43 CA workers and the payment, at cost of over $21,000, of 17 technical displacement allowances brought about because of improved work loads on the restored jobs.

Last October, at the cost of $600,000, the company started up a cellulose propionate line, putting 35 CA employees to work.

He said the union conceded, with commendable frankness, there is no "likelihood that the company would make that type of a dishonest decision."

This conclusion, he added, is fortified by what the company did following the Warp knit decision when, instead of withholding its final decision until after the lists expired, the company, three months before the two-year period expired, decided upon the permanent discontinuance of the operation.

"This," he said, "caused the payment of technological displacement allowances to some 350 to 400 employees at a cost of half a million dollars. Excluded, however, from the payment at that time were some 40 warp hangers whose seniority had already been terminated by the operation of the two-year furlough provision."

Sanitarians Are Busy On Sewage Projects

Construction work in this area kept sanitarians of the Allegany County Health Department busy during March.

J. Byron Dowling, chief of the Sanitation section, reported the Health Department approved the installation of 56 septic tanks for new homes being built, and issued permits for a number of other home sewage systems.

To supervise such work and to check on other sanitation tasks, members of the staff made 358 field trips in March.

The work included 66 trips on sewage problems, 47 investigations concerning water supplies, 27 garbage visits, 48 trips to food establishments and 64 visits to dairy farms.

Collected for bacteriological examinations were 85 samples of water, 268 of milk and 70 swab tests of china and utensils used in food and drink establishments.
